South Haven teachers ratify new salary agreement

By James Windell

South Haven teachers voted on January 13, 2026 to ratify a new salary agreement. And Jessica Fiedorowicz, President of the South Haven Education Association, is pleased with the agreement.

"This is a step in the right direction toward making South Haven competitive," she said after the vote was announced.

According to Fiedorowicz, the agreement makes sure all teachers will move to the step on the salary schedule that is equal to their years of service as a teacher in public education. "School district hiring practices have changed significantly in the last several years meaning that when hiring staff with experience, they are placed on the salary schedule that is equal to their years of service," she explained. "This was not always the case."

The new salary agreement came about because of a previous understanding with the South Haven School District that the salary portion of the contract could be reopened. Although it was hoped that a new salary schedule could have been negotiated by the beginning of the 2025-2026 school year, this was not possible because the state's School Aid budget get did not come out until October 2025. That budget determines what funds will go to each school district.

Superintendent Ana Aleman-Putman said that both sides worked very collaboratively and transparently "with the best interests of all staff at the forefront."

She added that both sides engaged in meaningful discussion around a variety of proposals and "ultimately moved toward an agreement that was fiscally responsible while also addressing the top priorities of our teachers." She viewed the negotiation process as productive and collaborative.

"I think we reached the best contract possible at this time," she said. "Following Thursday's meeting, we are all very encouraged by the progress made."

According to Aleman-Putman, the South Haven Board of Education will meet on January 21 to consider approving the agreement.

South Haven's Ice Breaker Festival celebrates its 32nd year

By James Windell

Need a reason to go outside in this frigid weather?

South Haven's Ice Breaker Festival is an excellent reason to be out and about in South Haven.

Taking place from January 30th through February 1st, 2026, the Ice Breaker Festival promises winter fun for the whole family.

"Now in its 32nd year, Ice Breaker is a beloved winter tradition that shows just how much this event means to South Haven," says South Haven Chamber of Commerce Director Brandy Key. "It brings thousands of people downtown during the slower season, filling our shops, restaurants, and lodging establishments while giving a boost to the local economy."

Besides being a vital event for South Haven businesses, Key says that the festival drives foot traffic, supports sales, and highlights South Haven as a vibrant, year-round destination. "Equally important," Key adds, "it brings the community together and showcases the strong partnership between the Chamber, local businesses, and volunteers who make the festival possible each year."

There are events every day of the festival and there's something for everyone in this unique winter festival.

"You can kick off Ice Breaker on Friday night with the Snowsuit Fashion Competition," says Key. "But Saturday features the majority of the festivities, including live ice carving, the Chili Cook-Off, Cardboard Sled Race, Frozen Fish Fling, horse-drawn wagon rides, family-friendly activities, and outdoor ice skating. Sunday wraps up the festival with continued fun from the Pub Slide, ice skating, and a Euchre tournament."

While all those things are going on, Key says that there are some new and exciting events on the schedule this year.

"This year, Ice Breaker is bringing even more fun and engaging experiences for everyone," she says. "We've expanded family-friendly activities, added more warming stations, and introduced exciting new interactive features like the 360° Photo Booth. Our goal is to make the festival even more enjoyable while staying true to the traditions that make Ice Breaker a beloved winter event."

Key describes the new 360 ° Photo Booth as a fun, interactive experience where guests step onto a platform while a camera rotates around them, capturing a slow-motion video from every angle. "It's a great way to create a memorable keepsake from Ice Breaker and share the fun on social media," she says. "The booth will be available downtown on Saturday and is free for attendees to enjoy."

Some of the traditional favorites of the festival include the sculpting of more than 40 blocks of ice. Each ice block weighs between 300 and 600 pounds and sculptors with chain saws shape them into incredible works of frozen art. While strolling around downtown South Haven, look for the Miss South Haven Court as they tour the town to judge the Queens Cup ice carving.

Also on Saturday, the Professional Chili Cook-Off provides downtown South Haven restaurants and bars the opportunity to vie for the coveted chili trophy and bragging rights. The chili from The Lodge has won four years in a row. You can sample all the chili and decide for yourself which is the best chili. But also on Saturday is the 7th Annual Frozen Fish Fling at the South Marina. Sponsored by the National Blueberry Festival, you can try your hand at flinging a frozen fish as far as possible. And when you have finished flinging a frozen trout, go to Coast Guard hill for the 8th annual Cardboard Sled Race on Saturday afternoon.

And after you have admired all of the amazing ice displays, had your fill of chili, and flung a fish, enjoy the Pub Slide where you can warm up with food, drink, and entertainment specials offered at participating bars and restaurants all weekend long.

Ice Breaker is presented by the South Haven Area Chamber of Commerce, but Brandy Key says it would not be possible without the incredible support of many local and regional business sponsors.

"From our Title Sponsor this year, Papa John's, to the numerous event, activity, and in-kind sponsors, Ice Breaker is truly a community supported festival," Key says. "The participation of so many businesses and organizations is a big part of what makes the event successful year after year."

Lithium-ion battery fire on FedEx truck shuts down portion of M-51

PAW PAW – A semi-truck and trailer fire loaded with lithium-ion batteries, shut down a portion of M-51 Highway for a period of time on Friday, Jan. 16, according to a press release from the Paw Paw Fire Department.

The Paw Paw Fire Department was dispatched at 3:59 a.m. for a semi-trailer fire with hazardous materials on board on M-51 Highway, just south of Interstate 94 Highway.

Paw Paw Fire Department Fire Chief Kyle Richardson said, "While enroute to the scene, Paw Paw Fire Department was advised by Van Buren County Central Dispatch that lithium-ion batteries were loaded in the trailer. Once on-scene, Paw Paw firefighters arrived to find a working fire with smoke showing from a semi-trailer.

"Through documentation provided by the driver, it was confirmed that approximately 800 pounds of lithium-ion batteries were on board. Once that was established, Paw Paw firefighters requested Berrien County Sheriff Department Hazmat Team to be dispatched to the scene.

Fire Chief Richardson said the area around the trailer was evacuated and M-51 Highway was shut down as a precaution, due to toxic smoke from the lithium-ion batteries. He said the fire department used approximately 10,000 gallons of water to extinguish the fire.

Once the fire was extinguished, an environmental company that was dispatched to the scene removed the batteries from the trailer. After the batteries were removed from the scene, M-51 Highway was re-opened at approximately 10:30 a.m.

The Paw Paw Fire Department was assisted by the Decatur-Hamilton Fire Department, Lawrence Fire Department, Lawton Fire Department, Van Buren Emergency Medical Services, Van Buren County Sheriff's Office, Berrien County Sheriff's Department Hazmat Team, Michigan State Police, Paw Paw Police Department, Decatur Police Department, Pokagon Tribal Police, Response Management Services (RMS) and Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT).

Brian Begeman named Mattawan Firefighter of the Year

MATTAWAN – "The Mattawan Fire District proudly reflects on another year of dedicated service to the community, responding to a total of 982 calls for service over the past year. These calls represent a wide range of emergencies, from fire suppression and rescue operations to medical and public assistance responses, underscoring the district's ongoing commitment to public safety," said Scott Brooks, Fire Chief, Mattawan Fire District.

Brooks announced that as part of this year's recognition, the Mattawan Fire District is honored to name Brian Begeman as Firefighter of the Year.

"This award recognizes Firefighter Begeman's exceptional dedication, professionalism, and unwavering service to the district and the residents it serves. His commitment to training, teamwork, and community service exemplifies the highest standards of the fire service," said Brooks.

According to Brooks, the success of the Mattawan Fire District is built on the dedication of its members and the strong partnerships it shares with neighboring agencies.

"The district's ability to respond to nearly a thousand calls this year would not be possible without a collective effort of our members, their families, neighboring agencies, and local businesses," said Brooks.

The Mattawan Fire District extends its sincere gratitude to the many agencies and partners who were able to join them in recognizing Firefighter Begeman:

Van Buren County Sheriff's Office, Lawton Fire Department, Paw Paw Fire Department, Antwerp Township, H&S Fleet, Rob's Tire, and Moses Equipment.

Brooks concluded, "The Mattawan Fire District remains committed to serving the community with professionalism, integrity, and pride, and looks forward to continuing its mission of protecting lives and property in the years to come."

Forest House gets special land use approval

By James Windell

The Historical Association of South Haven (HASH) submitted a Special Land Use Application to the South Haven Planning Commission on January 8, 2026.

The Special Land Use request related to Forest House in downtown South Haven. Zoning Administrator Kelly Getman-Dissette told the Planning Commission that HASH was asking to use the upper two floors of Forest House as a hotel.

"The upper floors contain four flats or apartments," Getman-Dissette said and added that HASH wants to be able to rent these apartments.

Jim Ollgaard, President of HASH, said in support of the Special Land Use request that "We plan to use both the second and third floors for hotel-type rentals."

The building at 313 Center Street was built as a hotel in 1853. HASH bought the building in 2022 and has been renovating it so that it resembles what it looked like in the past. Renamed Forest House, the building currently has a retail shop and a speakeasy on the first floor.

The Historical Society would like to renovate the upper floors to accommodate three hotel-like units. These units are proposed to be more similar to amenities found in an extended stay hotel, simply meaning that HASH intends to develop these three units to contain gathering spaces, bathrooms, and multiple bedrooms; similar to a suite style hotel. HASH says that the hotel is very niche oriented and not similar to hotels that may be found near I-196. Hotels, however, are special land uses in the Central Business District of downtown South Haven.

A public hearing was held on January 8, 2026, during the Planning Commission meeting, although there were no public comments. However, Planning Commission members raised questions about the parking spaces that would be required if the Forest House is used as a hotel.

Ollgaard said that the hotel could potentially house 20 guests, but that they could use municipal parking spaces that are close to the Forest House. While some Planning Commission members raised concerns about parking in the downtown area, the members of the commission were in agreement that this should be a concern of the City Council and that the council needs to deal with seasonal parking problems.

Rasing no other objections, the Planning Commission unanimously approved the Forest House request for special land use status.

Michigan Flywheelers Museum receives challenge grant

By James Windell

The Michigan Flywheelers Museum has just announced that it has been awarded a $100,000 Challenge Grant. The grant will go towards the construction of a brand-new ticket booth and gift shop.

"Being awarded this grant means that we can move forward much quicker to develop the new entrance to the museum," says Museum President Patrick Ingalls. "In reality, it could have taken quite a while to raise the funds necessary but now, we can focus on moving forward, hopefully, within the coming year."

This project marks the first phase of a transformative new entrance designed to enhance the visitor experience at one of the region's most popular historical destinations. The proposed facility will serve as a modern "front door" to the museum's 80-acre campus, located just east of South Haven on 68th Street.

Designed to blend historical charm with contemporary convenience, the new barn-style structure will include an improved admission area where guests can comfortably purchase tickets for museum events. Also, the grant will help construct more accessible and modern restroom facilities to accommodate the museum's growing number of annual visitors. Finally, an expanded gift shop is planned which will mean a larger retail space featuring unique Flywheelers logo items, tractor-themed home decor and old fashion toys.

"Once completed, the new entrance will be our 'Welcome Center' to the museum," says Ingalls. "It will be the central hub for ticket purchases, guest information and offer a larger retail space for museum memorabilia. It will significantly improve the site's inclusivity ensuring that guests – regardless of mobility – can easily navigate to the museum's large campus."

As a Challenge Grant, every dollar donated by the community and supporters will be matched, up to $100,000. This provides a unique opportunity for donors to see their contributions work twice as hard toward preserving Michigan's agricultural heritage.

Ingalls says the project is an investment in improving the visitor experience and preserving Michigan's agricultural heritage. The new entrance is also tied to the museum's Black River Railroad steam train project now under construction.

The museum is asking local businesses, historical enthusiasts, and the South Haven community to help meet the $100,000 goal. Contributions can be made online via the museum's website, by mail, or by attending one of several planned fundraisers.

"This grant is a transformative moment for us," explains Ingalls. "For years, our volunteers have worked tirelessly to preserve our agricultural history and the equipment that had such an impact on it. By helping us meet this challenge, you are ensuring that the museum is accessibly, comfortable and welcoming for every generation to come."

news4garrod@gmail.com

PAW PAW – Van Buren County Commissioners on Jan. 13, approved a Collective Bargaining Agreement for the 2026-2028 contract period with Police Officers Labor Council (POLC) – Command bargaining unit.

The Collective Bargaining Agreement has been reviewed, finalized, and ratified by the union and reflects mutually agreed-upon modifications that align with county operational priorities, current labor market conditions, and internal comparability objectives.

The agreement includes annual wage increases of three percent for each year from 2026 through 2028, clarification of contract language, and other adjustments intended to enhance contract consistency, equity, and administration.

The financial impact of these changes has been reviewed by Van Buren County Administration and incorporated into the county's long-term budget planning. The costs associated with the agreement will be funded through the General Fund and, where applicable, through departmental grants and millages, depending on specific roles within the bargaining unit.

The agreement is for Jan.1, 2026, through Dec.31, 2028.

Commissioners approved the tentative agreement between the county and AFSCME, all units except for Public Transit, for the term of Jan. 1, 2026, through Dec. 31, 2028.

Van Buren County concluded negotiations with AFSCME, resulting in a tentative agreement for the 2026 - 2028 contract period for all units except Public Transit.

Commissioners approved the appointment of Chad Hunt to the Building Authority for a three-year term, expiring on Dec. 31, 2028. Hunt's appointment filled a vacancy on the Building Authority.

Commissioners also approved the appointment of Emilly Hickmott to the Parks Commission for a three-year term ending Dec. 31, 2028.

Kiley's background includes service as the Lawrence Township treasurer, providing four years of governmental experience, in addition to a 20-year career as a private duty nurse, reflecting a long-standing commitment to public service and community caregiving. She is actively involved in multiple civic and community organizations, including the local Lions Club, senior services programming, and community supper initiatives, where she regularly contributes as a volunteer.

Commissioners said Kiley demonstrated a personal and professional commitment to farmland and natural resource preservation, a core mission of the Land Preservation Board, and her continued service supports long-term land conservation efforts within Van Buren County.

Kiley will serve a three-year term, ending Dec. 31, 2028.

Lawton Village Council puts non-compliance rental owners on notice

By Paul Garrod

news4garrod@gmail.com

LAWTON - Lawton Village Manager Todd Hackenberg said that as of Tuesday, Jan. 13, there are seven rental properties in the village that have not registered and are past the deadline. With council support, the village clerk will send out letters that have a final reminder, and those noncompliant after will be subject to a $1,000 fine per ordinance.

Village Manager Hackenberg said during December, the Village of Lawton Department of Public Works plowed snow. He said village secondary roads are plowed each day the village receives snow, though less often than primary roads which receive the most traffic.

Village Council member Judith Peterson reported that the Village of Lawton Planning Commission met, and Pin High Golf sent a site plan for their clubhouse, as well as a special use permit for alcohol sales. Peterson said HS Fleet, another new business in town, will have a site plan for the February meeting.

Village Council member Ryan Tanis asked if there was any timetable on the demolition of the former D Coy Ducks restaurant. Village Manager Hackenberg said a current extension on the demolition permit runs through the end of July. Hackenberg said he will follow up with the owner on demolition plans.

The village council received a request from Van Buren County Resource Recovery and Recycling Program for the annual contribution. In the past, the village has contributed $500 annually to this program. Council members approved to continue with $500 to the program.

The village council approved the 2026 holiday schedule as it has been in the past, with the addition this year of Veteran's Day.

Scott Club will host two programs in February

By James Windell

After more than 140 years of providing intellectual and literary programing, the Scott Club is finally having a lift installed so people who have difficulty with stairs can get to the second floor where most programs are held.

Despite the building being off limits for programs while the lift installation is taking place, programming in January and February will continue. In February 2026, two important events will be held.

On February 3, the Black History Leadership Society will present "2026: A Century of Black History Commemorations." Instead of meeting on the second floor of the Scott Club, this program will be held across the street at the First Congregational Church.

Each February, the members of the Black History Leadership Society of South Haven present a program aimed at keeping black history alive in celebration of Black History.

"This program is the kick off for Black History Month," notes Dorothy Sherrod, a member of the South Haven Black History Leadership Society. "A Century of Black History Commemorations is the National Theme for this year, the local theme is 'Honoring African American Health Care Professionals Past and Present.'"

Sherrod explains that at the Scott Club presentation, those attending can expect spiritual songs and information of their meaning. "Also," Sherrod adds, "we will bring an awareness to local health care professionals, as well as contributions from African Americans to the advancement of medical technology."

On Tuesday, February 17, local quilter and quilting instructor Deloa Jones will tell about her remarkable quilting journey that has spanned over 46 years. Jones will tell her story of how her quilting masterpieces have evolved by displaying 20 to 25 quilts that range from her earliest piece to her newest design. What attendees will discover is the artistry and passion behind every stitch in some of Deloa Jones's most remarkable quilts.

The Scott Club in South Haven is a historic cultural and literary organization founded in 1883 and is well known for its community programs, lectures, and arts events. It is also known for its landmark 1893 Queen Anne – style clubhouse. It is an active nonprofit organization dedicated to education, culture, and community enrichment.

The February 3, 2026 program, "2026: A Century of Black History Commemorations," will be held at 1:00 pm at the First Congregational Church, 651 Phoenix Street. "A Quilting Journey," featuring Deloa Jones, will also be held at the First Congregational Church on February 17 at 1:00 pm. All programs are free and open to the public.

South Haven three-sport athlete enjoying success

Isaac Chalupa is a 3-sport athlete at South Haven.

By John Raffel
Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — Isaac Chalupa was a center back and right back for South Haven who was a key part of a memorable soccer season which resulted in a state runner-up finish.

The dramatic 2-1 win over Fremont highlighted a South Haven effort in the state semifinals that put the squad in the state semifinals.

'It was the same motivation and intensity we had in the past few district games," he said. "With that we came out with a win. We know if we played like that we could come out with a win."

South Haven was playing a Fremont team which entered the semifinals with a 21-0 record.

"It was a higher competition compared to other teams we played," Chalupa said. "They had great offense and defense and could move the ball very well. We beat a lot of teams ranked higher than us so there's nothing stopping us now."

The key to beating powerhouse teams, Chalupa said, "is coming together for 80 minutes and pushing through."

Chalupa had some key defensive stops during various postseason games.

He was strong on defense all season.

"We just have good communication," he said, "and make sure we stop balls that need to be stopped and make sure nothing gets past us."

Chalupa also plays basketball and baseball at South Haven.

South Haven athlete had solid junior season

Angel Barajas has had a successful sports career at South Haven

By John Raffel
Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — Angel Barajas has had a successful sports career at South Haven and will always fondly remember one particular moment when he was on the Rams' soccer team.

He scored in the team's 2-1 victory in the state semifinal game against Fremont as the Rams went on to the state title game and wound up being state finalists.

His first goal of the state semifinal game "came from crazy energy," Barajas recalled. "We were down and it put us in the lead. It felt really good, it got the team motivated again. At halftime, were down."

His goal came on a penalty kick. The key to having success in that situation, he said, "was fake it to the other side."

Barajas was a junior and it was his second year of varsity soccer.

He scored seven goals during the season. "The key is having confidence in shooting the ball and make sure you're taking the shot at the right time," Barajas said.

Solid team work and communication was the key to the team's success, he said.

GOBLES — Gobles wrestlers were in action on Jan. 14 and 17.

Gobles defeated Fennville and South Haven in Conference Duals.

Gobles placed two at the Ron Russo Invitational and placed four at the Hudson Invitational stat leaders.

"Brody Marshall (third), Finn Carlin (fourth), Devin Doorlag (seventh), and Aiden Dukes (seventh) all placed at the highly competitive Hudson Invitational at Hudson.

"Bryce, Colton, Brody, Finn, Devin, and Aiden were solid all week. They practiced well and put themselves in a position to be successful. In going to Hudson and having success, the boys showed, yet again, that Gobles wrestlers can compete with some of the best in the state."

Brody Marshall secured his 100th win in the team dual against South Haven.

Gobles will be in the SAC Conference Duals at Constantine versus Constantine and Lawton.

Gobles girls wrestlers have big day

Gobles girls wrestlers have enjoyed recent success.

By John Raffel
Correspondent

GOBLES — The Gobles girls wrestling team put in the work over holiday break and it showed in competition according to coach Dan Morris.

Friday (Jan. 9) "we made the two-hour drive to Lakeview High School to face some new competition," Morris said. "Some of the best athletes in the area were present and our girls stepped up to the line no matter who they were.

"Alysa Sparks wrestled in our 100 pound weight class for the first time of the season. She started the day off with a quick pin in the first round. After falling victim to a more technical wrestler in the second round, she came back to win her next two matches and secure a third-place finish."

Freedom Morris "continues to push the pace on the mat,": Dan Morris said. "After getting stuck in a head and arm in her first match of the day, she hit a mental reset and jumped back on the mat winning her next two matches with grit and determination, pinning both and securing a third place finish.

"Jasmine Gutierrez started the day with a tough loss but came back in her next match winning by pin. She earned her first medal of the year finishing the day in fourth place. She grows as a wrestler every week and will be very good in no time."

Gobles was set to hit the mats for the next round of competition at Kalamazoo Central earlier this week.

The roadblocks to a cancer cure are frustrating

MIKE WILCOX
■ PUBLISHER ■

Every few years, the same frustrated question resurfaces: With all the money, technology and brainpower in the world, why haven't we cured cancer yet? It's a fair question. We've put men on the moon, decoded the human genome and carry supercomputers in our pockets. Surely cancer should be history by now.

The uncomfortable truth is this: cancer isn't one disease. It's hundreds of diseases, each behaving differently, mutating constantly and adapting in ways that make it one of the most complex challenges modern medicine has ever faced.

When people talk about "curing cancer," they often imagine a single breakthrough—a miracle drug or treatment that wipes it out once and for all. But cancer doesn't work that way. Breast cancer is not lung cancer. Leukemia is not pancreatic cancer. Even two patients with the same diagnosis can respond very differently to the same treatment. Cancer is personal, genetic and, at times, maddeningly unpredictable.

That complexity alone would make a cure difficult. But it is not the only obstacle. Bureaucracy has also played a significant—and often underappreciated—role in slowing progress. This is where actual progress is stalled. Federal agencies, reporting requirements, and the regulatory progress in this writer's view have made it almost impossible to find a cure. In my mind many of these restrictions must be lifted.

Medical research is governed by layers of regulation, oversight committees, institutional review boards, funding gatekeepers and federal agencies. While many of these safeguards exist to protect patients, they also create delays that can stretch promising discoveries into decade-long approval processes. A treatment that shows real promise in a laboratory may take 10 to 15 years before it ever reaches patients, assuming it survives the maze of paperwork, trials and regulatory hurdles.

Researchers often spend as much time applying for grants, complying with reporting requirements and navigating administrative rules as they do conducting actual science. Innovative ideas can die not because they don't work, but because they don't fit neatly into funding criteria or established research models. Risk-taking—the kind that often leads to breakthroughs—is frequently discouraged by systems that reward caution and predictability.

The regulatory process for new cancer drugs is another bottleneck. Clinical trials are expensive, slow and highly controlled. While patient safety must always come first, critics argue that the system sometimes errs too far on the side of delay, keeping potentially life-saving treatments out of reach for patients who have run out of options. Compassionate-use programs exist, but they are often buried under red tape and inconsistent rules.

Then there's the issue of incentives. Pharmaceutical companies operate within bureaucratic and financial frameworks that don't always reward cures. Long-term treatments can be more profitable than one-time solutions, and navigating approval systems can discourage smaller companies or independent researchers from entering the field at all.

Cancer also mutates. A treatment that works today may fail tomorrow because surviving cells adapt and become resistant. That's why cancer care often involves combinations of surgery, radiation, chemotherapy, immunotherapy and targeted drugs. Doctors aren't throwing everything at the wall—they're trying to stay one step ahead of a constantly evolving enemy.

Prevention adds another layer of frustration. Many cancers are linked to smoking, poor diet, inactivity, environmental exposure and delayed screenings. Addressing those risks requires public policy changes, education campaigns and regulatory courage—areas where bureaucracy often moves slowly and cautiously, even when the science is clear.

This saddens me. Thousands die from some form of cancer each year, yet we can't, as a government or bureaucracy get a handle on all these roadblocks to a cure. I also can't understand why people continue to smoke knowing it is a death wish.

Perhaps the better question isn't why cancer hasn't been cured—but why we expect a single cure at all. The future likely lies in thousands of personalized treatments, faster approval pathways and a system that trusts doctors and patients to make informed decisions sooner rather than later.

Cancer hasn't been cured yet because it is extraordinarily complex—and because the systems built to manage risk and process innovation often move slower than the disease itself. We need to flip the script and get out in front of the disease.

Sheriff's Report- Victim Services Unit helps nearly 300 people in 2025

"Our Victim Services Unit ended 2025 with 47 callouts. With the callouts, they were able to help 295 people. VSU plays a huge role in our office in helping those in need and I cannot thank them enough for what they do," said Van Buren County Sheriff Daniel Abbott.

"Our Office assisted Decatur/Hamilton Fire Department and Decatur Police Department with a grain bin incident in the Village of Decatur. There were numerous departments and agencies involved in the situation, and everyone worked well together with a positive outcome," said Sheriff Abbott.

"Our Office had our annual federal inspection, and we passed with no issues. We must have this annually due to having a contract with the United States Marshalls Office to house federal inmates," said Sheriff Abbott.

Uniform Response handled a domestic assault in Bangor Township. The suspect was lodged for domestic assault, assault by strangulation, and interfering with an electronic communication device (took the phone so they couldn't call for help).

Uniform Response assisted Mattawan Police Department with a search warrant execution for a suspect pointing a gun at an individual. The suspect was located and taken into custody for the incident.

Uniform Response handled an assault complaint in Bangor Township. "The investigation found that no assault took place, but one of the individuals involved had a warrant for his arrest out of Allegan County. He was lodged on the warrant awaiting pickup from Allegan County," said Sheriff Abbott.

"I was invited to the Paw Paw/Lawton Mason Lodge 25 this past week. They once again made a large monetary donation to our Child Safety of America Inc. program. It's a program we use for materials to educate our youth in the county to keep them safe. I truly enjoyed the evening and a huge thank you for donating to the program, it makes a difference in our community. I would also like to thank all the others who donate to the program as well," said Sheriff Abbott.

"Dispatcher Deb Chapman was presented a Stork Award at the 911 Advisory Board Meeting by our office. Deb processed a 911 call about a 25-year-old female in active labor. She calmly provided the critically established medical protocols for assisting in childbirth and determined the delivery was imminent. In approximately 1½ minutes from receiving the call, she successfully assisted in delivering a healthy baby boy. Deb stayed on the line to provide comfort and assurance until emergency medical personnel arrived on scene. Great job!" said Sheriff Abbott.

Supervisor Chad Kirby from Dispatch was presented a Life Saving Award at the 911 Advisory Board meeting by our office. Dispatch received multiple 911 calls coming in related to a house that was on fire in the Village of Decatur. Chad took one of the calls in which it was a disabled resident who was trapped in a bathroom in the house that was on fire. Chad calmly, efficiently, and professionally gathered the necessary information and instructed the caller what to do through emergency fire protocols. While on the phone with the caller, Chad directed via radio to the fire department on scene where she was at. Without Chads actions, the outcome of this house fire may have had a different outcome. Great teamwork, great job by Chad!" said Sheriff Abbott.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor's musings hide his partisan politics

To The Editor

It has been interesting watching editor Wilcox craftily hide a partisan politic the last couple years. His musings often make sense on the surface covering issues many are concerned about, like the one about money in politics. The gist of it of course was about billionaires buying politicians. However the line "like George Soros" was revealing as the only billionaire mentioned. Clever, yes? The line implied all the right-wing, anti-liberal rhetoric without actually saying it. In a very right-wing way though, Wilcox failed to mention at the time the top 16 0f 25 billionaire donors to the 2020 election were republicans. Together they gave $152 MILLION more than the 9 Democrats who included Soros.

As time past and especially nearer the 2024 election the musings became less covert. Finally the MAGA language appeared in the Musings. Comments about the "woke agenda," PRESIDENT Biden's physical health and such until finally a column actually thanking God for DOGE. An amazing comment in retrospect since DOGE cost millions, enabled Musk to cancel investigations into his companies, walk off with personal info of Americans and gain more billions in government contracts.

Since the last election Wilcox has been eerily silent. Not a word about ICE thugs arresting and detaining people with legal status and even U.S. natural born citizens. Yes they are, for those in the back. Last week agents dragged a 17 year old TEENAGER from his work, threw him to the ground, tied him and took him away. All the while he was saying he is a citizen and has his passport ON HIM. All was ignored (after all he wasn't white) and he was later dumped in a Walmart parking lot miles away. There are now hundreds of verified incidents of U.S. citizens being attacked by ICE and CBP.

Even weirder after all the commenting on Biden's fitness is Wilcox's silence about the Felon who continuously falls asleep in meetings, gives hour long meandering speeches without any coherence, lies continuously (repeatedly claiming grocery prices have come way down for example), rages in tweets during the middle of the night and especially waging and threatening war on other countries. The current president clearly is suffering from dementia, but silence from Wilcox. As a side I'll mention our gaslighting Representative in hiding, Billy Huizenga, is even more silent while protecting the pedophiles and voting to take healthcare and food assistance from constituents.

So now we have the latest January 15th Musings about the IRS. Boy don't we all hate the IRS! What we have is another ranting that makes sense on the surface, while in true MAGA form leaves out the context. Conveniently not mentioned among the complaining about poor phone times, under staffing and old equipment is the fact that PRESIDENT Biden completed legislation that would have added 89,000 IRS employees OVER TEN YEARS to replace the 50,000 living and retiring during then, and replaced equipment. Phone wait times had markedly improved under Biden as well. Wilcox doesn't mention here it was Republicans who repealed the bulk of that legislation, it was the Felon in his first term that cut $278 MILLION from the IRS budget and since returning has cut staff again and frozen hiring. Of course Wilcox doesn't mention how the right-wing falsely claimed the 89,000 would be armed agents going after regular people. It was simply lying propaganda, but in MAGA world so what...Meanwhile audits of billionaire tax cheats have nearly ended and a million bucks donated can get you a pardon. Republicans have been after the IRS since before the Felon and are responsible for the complaints in the latest Musings.

From covertly expressed politics to overtly expressed ones and back to the covert Musings. An amazing journey that could have been way better.

OBITUARY

Elizabeth Williams

Elizabeth Anne Williams, 62, of Mattawan, passed away suddenly on Sunday, Jan. 11, 2026, at her home in Mattawan. She was born Oct. 23, 1963, in Fort Benning, Georgia, the daughter of Nathan Stackhouse, Jr., and Gerry Geraldine (Welch) Stackhouse.

Elizabeth was a woman of many talents and hobbies. She was an avid crafter and always had the best crafting equipment. She enjoyed teaching others crafts. She was also an animal lover and raised rabbits, chickens, sheep, and goats. She was incredibly active in 4-H throughout the years and got her children involved in the program, as she showed rabbits for many years. Elizabeth adored her homestead and made her own soaps, bread and food, all of which were phenomenal! One of her favorite activities was attending Renaissance fairs with her family. She would sew each costume she and her family would wear!

Above all else, her greatest joy was her children and grandchildren. She was always their No. 1 fan, especially when it came to Jordan's racing and Kelsey's dancing. She could always be heard in the crowd cheering her family on.

Elizabeth is survived by her loving husband, Daniel Williams; daughter, Kelsey (Chris) Cornell; sons, Jordan (Courtney) Filip and Joshua (Lindsey) Williams; grandchildren, Sawyer Cornell, Elena Cornell, Madison Williams, Jayden Williams, CJ Williams, Jaxson Williams and Landon Williams. She is also survived by her sister, Rebecca Stackhouse; mother, Gerry Stackhouse, father, Nathan Stackhouse, Jr., and mother-in-law, Irene Taylor.

Elizabeth was preceded in passing by her grandson, Roman Williams and brother, Nathan Stackhouse, III.

Family and friends are invited to visit and celebrate Elizabeth's life on Friday, Jan. 23, from 10 to 11 a.m. at St. Mark's Episcopal Church, 412 Cedar St., Paw Paw. A memorial service will begin at 11 a.m. with the Rev. Leonard Brinkmoeller officiating. There will be a luncheon held at the church following the service. Elizabeth will be laid to rest at Austin Cemetery at a later date.

Memorial contributions may be directed to the National Kidney Foundation.

PAW PAW – Two Paw Paw businesses have collaborated to offer a new dining experience for patrons attending The Lucky Wolf in Paw Paw.

"The Kitchen at The Lucky Wolf," began on Jan. 8. The collaboration was the idea of The Lucky Wolf owner Jason Deibler-Love and GG Sweets & Eats and Creative Catering owners, Sarah and Zach Cox.

"We're excited to have a partner that is as committed to his clients as much as we are," said Sarah Cox. "Once we move in and evolve, we'll find a rhythm," she said.

For January, dinner will be offered Thursday through Saturday with entertainment at The Lucky Wolf. The new collaboration plans to offer lunch and dinner seven days a week beginning in February.

On Friday, Jan. 16, an event, sponsored by Eleven Eleven Yoga, was a fundraiser for the India Love Sunflower Foundation. Patrons had a chance to take in "Napoleon Dynamite."

India, the wife of Deibler-Love, passed away in 2023.

An upstairs dinner will be offered on Saturday, Jan. 24, with a variety of bourbons and a performance by The Go Rounds.

Lakeshore Habitat for Humanity brings critical home repairs to county

By Art Nicholas

When a family's home needs critical repairs, but financial constraints make those repairs unaffordable, where do they turn? For eligible homeowners in South Haven and Van Buren County, Lakeshore Habitat for Humanity's Home Repair Program offers a lifeline.

While many people know Habitat for Humanity as the organization that builds new homes, Lakeshore Habitat has expanded its mission to include home repair services. The program focuses on preventing displacement by making existing homes safe, warm, and accessible for low to moderate-income families.

"Many people don't know that we have a home repair program that operates alongside our more well-known home building projects," explains Dave Rozman, Executive Director for Lakeshore Habitat. "We don't just build homes. We provide home repairs, too."

The program addresses three critical focus areas: health, safety, and accessibility. This means tackling everything from dangerous plumbing hazards and electrical issues to heating and cooling problems that can make homes uninhabitable during Michigan's extreme weather. The scope also extends to exterior rehabilitation including roofing and siding repairs, as well as accessibility improvements like ramps, railings, grab bars, and walk-in showers.

What sets Lakeshore Habitat's approach apart is its creative use of multiple funding sources, which allows the organization to provide repairs at significantly lower costs than traditional contractors. James Royster, Home Repair Program Manager, emphasizes the importance of this accessibility: "Qualified households may be eligible for repairs to be completed at no cost to the homeowner. The funding is time-sensitive so we encourage interested households to apply soon."

The program serves eligible homeowners in the City and Township of Holland, the City of Allegan and the Cities and Townships of Holland/Zealand. To qualify, applicants must meet specific criteria designed to help those who need it most while ensuring program sustainability.

First, the home must be owner-occupied and structurally built—mobile homes aren't eligible for this particular program, though Lakeshore Habitat can provide referrals to partner organizations for mobile home repairs. Second, household income must be at or below 80% of the Area Median Income. The maximum income varies based upon household size. For example, for a family of four in Van Buren County, the maximum income limit is $69,500. This income bracket targets working families who earn too much to qualify for some assistance programs but not enough to afford market-rate home repairs.

Importantly, homeowners don't need to live in a Habitat-built home to receive assistance. The program is open to any eligible homeowner willing to partner with Lakeshore Habitat throughout the repair process. This partnership approach reflects Habitat's broader philosophy of working alongside families rather than simply providing charity.

The application process begins with a simple interest form available on Lakeshore Habitat's website. From there, the team works with homeowners to assess their needs, determine eligibility, and develop a repair plan that addresses the most critical issues first.

For City of South Haven and South Haven Township residents struggling with aging homes and mounting repair needs, this program represents more than just fixing broken systems about stability, safety, and the ability to age in place. Accessibility improvements like walk-in showers and grab bars allow elderly residents to remain in their homes independently, while critical repairs to roofing, heating, and electrical systems ensure homes remain safe and habitable.

The program also serves a broader community purpose by stabilizing neighborhoods and preserving housing stock. When homes fall into disrepair, entire neighborhoods can suffer declining property values and increased safety hazards. By helping homeowners maintain their properties, Lakeshore Habitat contributes to the overall health and vitality of these Michigan communities.

For those interested in applying or learning more about the program, Lakeshore Habitat for Humanity encourages residents to visit their website at lakeshorehabitat.org/home-repair-program or call (616) 393-8001 ext. 110. The organization's office is located at 12727 Riley Street in Holland, Michigan.
